Spice:

A Safe Place For Women To Grow Together

Ladies, do you get nervous about sharing a word on Sunday? Need a way to practice your gifts more often? Discover how Spice, the church's women's ministry, can provide you with tools to grow your gifts together with like-minded women.

Co-leader Gina Kraft feels the women at Spice store gold nuggets of encouragement. Spice's smaller size makes it easier to share your gifts. She loves seeing this gold drawn out to bless their fellowship.

Kraft said that at Spice the "sweet" and "tangible" presence of God is always there. Spice is not "just a meeting." God "breathes life into the room" by ministering to these women.

As a couple of Spice ladies have commented below, these sentiments are carried throughout Spice.

Robin Runals said, "Our family has been at The Point for 3 months now and we are becoming members. Spice is a treasure! [It is] such an encouraging group of women holding each other up and enjoying the Lord together. I am so very grateful for these ladies."

Ginae Karoub said, "I feel so blessed to be able to attend Spice. Our meetings have wonderful moves of the Lord. Each week with the worship, the word and the fellowship, each of us, I am sure, leaves with what we need. What I love is how each woman is open to share the love of the Lord they have!"

When Spice first started a decade ago by Angela Hughes, most participants were mothers with children. Now, Spice is teaching based on the recent increase in younger newcomers.

After worship, a speaker will speak for about a half an hour. Sermons are Spirit-led and can be themed, such as praise & worship, the word, and thanksgiving. To ensure that "everybody gets heard," Kraft said Spice also provides time for comments and questions. Other times the meeting will regroup for Bible study.

Spice meets at The Point's main campus in Caledonia throughout the school year on Tuesdays from 10am to 11:30am. The time offers women a way to maintain their spiritual growth during the week without detracting from evening life groups.

Child-care is provided for a small fee of $3 for the first child and $2 for each subsequent child per week.

For a mid-week refresher with other women in Christ, come visit Spice on a Tuesday morning.
